

A photograph of two birds in a snowy field. The bird on the left is a male house finch with a bright red head and neck. The bird on the right is a smaller, brownish bird, possibly a chickadee. The ground is covered in snow and scattered with dark birdseed. The text 'Abirdy Photos Inc. Watermark' is overlaid in the center of the image.

A close-up photograph of a bird's nest. The nest is constructed from a complex arrangement of dry, brown twigs and sticks. In the center of the nest, there are five light blue, speckled eggs. A small, fluffy, reddish-brown chick is positioned among the eggs, its body partially obscured by them. The chick has a soft, downy texture and a distinct reddish-brown color. The background is filled with the intricate structure of the nest, creating a sense of depth and texture.

A close-up photograph of a bird's nest. The nest is constructed from a complex arrangement of dry, brown twigs and sticks. In the center of the nest, there are three light-colored, speckled eggs. The eggs are positioned in a triangular pattern, with one egg at the top and two at the bottom. The speckles on the eggs are small, dark spots. The background is filled with the intricate texture of the nest's construction. A semi-transparent watermark is overlaid on the image, reading "Abirdy Photos Watermark".

A small red bird, possibly a finch, is perched on a green stem of a plant. The bird has a bright red head and back, with brownish-grey wings and tail. It is facing right, looking down. The background is a soft-focus green and brown, suggesting a natural outdoor setting. A large, semi-transparent watermark is overlaid on the image.
